TRIVIA CHALLENGE: General Ralph Canine was NSA's first director; a road on the Fort Meade campus is named for him, as well as two facilities in the main buildings there. Where was General Canine's office after NSA moved to Fort Meade in the 1950s?

TRIVIA ANSWER:

General Canine retired from NSA and the military service in 1956 before the director's suite on the Fort Meade campus was occupied. He never had an office at Fort Meade.
